

Bachelor of Science in Business Administration with a major in Accounting

Accountants maintain the financial records, supervise the recording of transactions for businesses, corporations, not-for-profit organizations, and governmental units. Accountants design and maintain systems to record changes in assets and liabilities, supervise accounting for expenses, payments, purchases, and inventories, prepare periodic tax and financial reports, and report information about the organization's performance to internal and external entities such as management, shareholders, creditors, and vendors. Areas of concentration include public, corporate/managerial, or government accounting, and internal auditing. The Accounting major prepares students for the Uniform Certified Public Accountant Examination (CPA) and is a solid basis for employment as an accountant, or in other areas such as small business, entrepreneurship, financial analysis, banking and credit analysis. Some students elect to pursue education beyond the B.S.B.A. as most states require 150 credit hours of education to become a CPA. It is recommended that students complete one or more internships to be successful and competitive when entering the field of accounting.
