

The Counselor Education program uses multi methods of instruction. The KU program values interaction, discourse and requires students to demonstrate the development of their counseling skills. This is a face-to-face program; however, technology is extensively used.